Another Defending Regiment Twice Attacks Numerically Superior Force

METHODICAL BOMBING

Enemy Observed Constructing Defensive Positions

TOKYO, July 17—(INS)—The text of General MacArthur's Communique No. 87 issued at 2:20 p. m.
(12:20 a. m. EDT, Monday):

Twice within the last 12 hours deadly American fire support and aggressive, hard-hitting South Korean Army units, have teamed up to hurl back advancing North Korean units in two of the most conclusive set-backs administered the Reds since they crossed the 38th
parallel.

Early this morning, strong invading forces attacked the South Korean 23rd infantry regiment on the east coast, north of Yongdok.

This Communist force, heartened by a partially successful sea and land operation yesterday against the South Korean 23rd Infantry, received its biggest surprise of the war when Fifth Air Force fighters, flying in close support, joined the South Korean regiment in a counter-attack to regain contact with this routed North Korean force.

Late yesterday afternoon, another South Korean regiment, the 21st, in the Yecheon area of the U. S.-S. K.
line, with a supporting U. S. artillery unit, twice attacked numerically superior advancing North Korean forces. Methodical U. S. artillery bombardment of the Reds column supplied the South Korean regiment with the supporting fire it needed to halt the Red force dead in its tracks. By dark, the enemy had completely abandoned any idea of continuing its advance and was observed constructing defensive positions. Patrols from this victorystiffened South Korean regiment were reported this morning as patrolling to probe out the enemy position and to check the damage already inflicted on the North Korean force.

ATOM-BOMB ATTACK ON THE UNITED STATES WOULD CATCH NATION WITH GUARD DOWN ON CIVIL DEFENSE; THE STATUS IS OUTLINED

The Communist invasion of South Korea has created new fears of a third world war in which the United States may be the target of enemy action. The question arises: Is the home front prepared for an assault
which would dwarf the "Battle of Britain" in World War II?
Following is the first of a series of three articles in which International News Service reports on the status of American civil defense.

By Phillips J. Peck
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, July 17—(INS)—
An atom-bomb attack on the United States tomorrow would catch the nation with its guard down on civil defense.

By way of contrast, Russia has a long-established civil defense organization numbering more than 20 million participants and a program
of training five million new "volunteers" annually.

The U. S. S. R. twenty years ago started dispersing its industry
while much of the U. S. war production might be concentrated in a few major cities.

American officials are acutely aware of this disparity. In light of the uneasy world picture, they have accelerated U. S. planning to the fullest degree. But it will take time to obtain results; two years at least.

It is doubtful the nation will have anything like an effective national civil defense force before 1952 and the home front will not be completely prepared for an atomic war before 1953.

Civilian Mobilization Director
Paul J. Larsen told Congress last spring:

"There is one question which I am sure, must be in your minds
What would we do if bombs should fall tomorrow? Would we be ready?"

"To be frank, the answer is that we would not be ready tomorrow—
not as ready as we will be a year
from now, but more nearly ready
than a year ago."

Today, three and one-half months later and three weeks after the outbreak of fighting in Korea, Larsen finds no reason to change that appraisal of the situation.

The answer as to why we are un-ready is not difficult. In the years immediately following V-J Day, nobody really faced up to the problem of civil defense. Federal planning was irregular; leadership changed frequently, and reports were made and pigeon-holed.

President Truman's dramatic announcement last September of an accelerated U. S. planning to the

Mrs. Robert Hussellath, the for-

of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Oblinger,
New Hope, was returning to her home in Butler on Monday morning, after having taken her husband

heavy rain that almost obscured the road, the car was struck by the train, dragged for 90 feet along the track and tossed down a 12-foot embankment.

Mrs. Hussellath was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Paterson, where she was found to have a seriously fractured skull.

Yetter Resigns As Chief Of Sellersville Police

SELLERSVILLE, July 17—Matthew P. Yetter, chief of police, here, has resigned.

Borough officials said Yetter submitted his resignation on Tuesday and went off duty at once. They said the police chief's resignation was forthcoming following a report received by Sellersville borough council last week.

At that time Council acted favorably upon a recommendation of its police committee, of which Wayne Buddenmeyer is chairman, in which the resignation of Yetter was requested for "violation of the police disciplinary code."

Yetter had been police chief here for about two years. He is a former member of the State Police.

Phillip Coll, who has been a member of the borough police department, will serve as acting chief until Yetter's successor is named.

AS KOREAN BATTLE ZONE MOVED SOUTH OF KUM RIVER

AFTER WITHDRAWING across the Kum River, a line of rain-soaked and weary GIs (top) slog through mud just behind a dike on the river's south bank where the North Korean forces are attempting to reach Taejon and cut U. S. supply lines to Pusan. At bottom, a U. S. tankman sits atop his steel juggernaut, dug in south of the Kum. This area has become the scene of heavy fighting. (Army Photo from International Soundphoto)

ARMY WORMS ARE DRIVEN UNDERGROUND

Insecticides, Disease and Parasites Have Taken
Heavy Toll

MAY APPEAR AGAIN

The hordes of army worms which threatened to seriously damage crops in this area have suddenly been driven underground, according to reports from farmers.

Insecticides, disease and parasites have taken a heavy toll of the large number of worms which appeared here during the last few weeks.

Mature worms which have not been destroyed have gone into the ground, and any further re-appearance later this season will probably not be as heavy as the first attacks.

DDT, chlordane or toxaphene
may be used to control the worms where they are still active. At least one pound, but not more than one and a half pounds, of any of the insecticides is enough for an acre.

In areas where spraying or dusting is not practical, a mixture of 20 pounds of bran, one pound of Paris green, white arsenic or sodium fluosilicate, mixed with enough molasses and water to make a crumbly mixture, will treat an acre. This is the same treatment recommended for destroying cutworms.

In some areas severe damage resulted from the ravages of the army worm; other areas were not as hard hit. Barley and grasses were among the hard hit crops. Much of the corn damaged has a good chance of recovering.

MAN HIT BY BULLET AS HE WALKS OVER BRIDGE

Dominic Marini, 28, Suffers Injury on Right Side of Chest

BULLET OF .22 CALIBRE

BRIDGEWATER, July 17—A .22
bullet fired by an unidentified person struck Dominic Marini, 28, of Bridgewater road, at "1:30 last night as he was walking across Neshaminy bridge.

The bullet hit a rib on the right side of Marini's chest and ricocheted from his body. Authorities at Harriman hospital, where he was taken by an unidentified woman motorist, said the bullet might have gone into his chest, if it had not hit the rib.

Marini said he felt a slight pain and when he touched his chest he could feel blood. He was taken home by Bristol township police chief, Joseph Seader, after being treated at the hospital for a flesh wound.

ANOTHER BATAAN!

If anyone believed that when American troops went into action in Korea the invaders would turn tail and run, that delusion has been dispelled. The opposite has happened, and the opposite was to be expected.

The North Koreans had immense military advantages, and used them well. Before the fighting broke out, U. S. military men termed South Korea indefensible (though the statement was properly qualified). Americans must be prepared for the possibility of a Korean Dunkirk or Bataan.

General MacArthur has set up an improvised defense against a well planned offensive. The defending forces are outnumbered and outgunned. They were forced to use jet fighters and B-29 long range bombers, poorly suited to conditions in Korea. They are deficient in armor. Americans in Korea are handicapped by ignorance of the language and unfamiliarity with the terrain. And they are defending a peninsular bottleneck that limits their freedom to maneuver.

American forces are still in the first stage of the Korean conflict—the stage of defending what might be termed a bridgehead until adequate reinforcements and supplies can be brought in. During this stage it will be touch and go. Port and airfield facilities are none too adequate for the job of supply and reinforcement.

The situation at the moment does not appear to be desperate. The decision to substitute Mustang fighters for land-based jets, and the presence of a Navy carrier to provide on-the-spot tactical air support, will partially correct one serious weakness, though bad weather could continue to limit use of air power. Behind-the-lines strategic bombing in North Korea is having effects that will be felt after a time lag.

Attempts by the enemy at a decisive breakthrough and encirclement have so far been frustrated. But the United States is still engaged primarily in mobilizing and only secondarily in fighting. Meanwhile the area General MacArthur's forces hold is shrinking, and the enemy is preparing new blows. The situation, though not desperate, is clearly critical.

IMPEDING AUTO OUTPUT

It is unfortunate that at a time like the present strikes in plants of two suppliers of parts—Budd and Borg-Warner—have resulted in reduction of output of automobiles. Never in the history of the industry was sustained demand for cars so great. And the industry, unhampered by strikes since the Chrysler walkout was ended, was producing heroically to keep up with sales. Several times recently the weekly output of passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada approached the 200,000 mark.

Unless the Borg-Warner and Budd strikes are settled quickly, output of all auto factories except General Motors plants may grind to a halt or be seriously curtailed.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Postpone the Program

Washington, July 17. Certainly, before long President Truman will go before Congress with a statement of the facts and, along with mobilization enactments, a request for large additional appropriations to meet the Korean crisis. Already announcement has been made that the Defense Department will need at least a billion more dollars. Whatever Mr. Truman asks along this line, it is quite sure his request will be granted and his position supported by the country.

Anything else is unthinkable and Senator Taft, chairman of the Republican policy committee, has made it clear in advance that such will be his attitude. So has Senator Byrd, of Virginia. Nevertheless, Mr. Truman owes a good deal more than this to the American people. And if the situation is to be met effectively he has to rise higher to meet it. No patriotic man in either party wants to be niggardly or reluctant about the cost of carrying the Korean conflict to a complete victory against the Soviet-encouraged North Korean aggression.

On the other hand, unstinted support of the President by Congress and the people, with evidence of willingness to do anything for a swift conclusion of the Korean campaign, entitles them to concrete assurances from Mr. Truman along lines which up to now he has avoided. Chief among these is the assurance that on his part no unnecessary dollars will be spent for domestic purposes. Obviously, this would involve cessation upon the part of Mr. Truman of all effort to jam through Congress the expensive experiments in his program, such as the absurdly grandiose Brannan farm scheme, the extravagant and impractical proposals to socialize medicine, being pushed by his aide, Mr. Oscar Ewing, and the other undigested and costly plans for the expansion of Government subsidies and handouts.

Senator Byrd points out that purely domestic expenditures have increased 77 per cent since 1948. "With a war on our hands," he says, "some of these outlays must be cut unless we are going to spend ourselves into the kind of bankruptcy the Russians are counting on." It does not seem that this kind of assurance is expected too much of Mr. Truman. As a matter of fact, indefinite postponement of his entire domestic program is the only logical and sensible thing for him to do. Under the circumstances nothing less can be justified. Rigid economy in all domestic expenditures, accompanied by taxes that will keep us from sliding more deeply into the red, is the only sound presidential program, the one way by which we can keep steady our Federal fiscal structure upon the solidity of which our military strength depends.

Few will dispute these facts. Yet, so far there has been no real indication upon the part of the Administration to face them. No Administration voice has been raised either in favor of a sharp slice in domestic expenditures or for postponement of the Truman domestic program, the enactment of which would add literally billions to them. There has been no time since he became President that Mr. Truman has been in so great need of sound economic advice. Yet, that sort of advice does not seem forthcoming from his Council of Economic Advisers, headed by the brilliant Mr. Leon Keyserling. On the contrary, the words retrenchment and reduction in domestic affairs seem altogether left out of the Keyserling lexicon. His recent public pronouncements appear entirely devoted to assertions of how strong our economy is at present, how equal it will be to practically any strain and how marvelously rosy the whole business outlook of the country is.

Few economists agree with Mr. Keyserling in this view. Yet, that is the sort of economic advice Mr. Truman now gets from him. In Mr. Keyserling's book, apparently there is no suggestion that any kind of reduction in spending or any postponement of costly domestic experiments is necessary or even desirable—quite the reverse. With a war on our hands, this sort of reasoning does not make much sense. But it should be remembered that, according to his journalistic promoters, Mr. Keyserling is one of the architects of the "Fair Deal" and always has been a very valuable member of the spending school.

Considering these things, it seems extremely doubtful that the strain imposed by additional appropriated billions for purposes of war will be offset by any real Administration effort to curtail its costly domestic program or to cut domestic costs. If anything is done along those lines, obviously it must be done by Congress. In the past, with the White House hostile, no Congress has ever been able really to cut government costs. It might be able to do so this time if the people were sufficiently aroused and understanding. But it isn't easy to achieve that state of affairs.

Doylestown Considers Sewer Extension

told council sewer committee chairman Luther Nash that engineers are studying methods of treating waste from the plant so that it will meet state and local health requirements.

A petition signed by 29 residents of the east end was presented by Matthew Suydam, 342 E. Ashland street, and Robert C. J. McKinstry, urging for sewer improvements in the E. State street, E. Ashland street and Golfview road sections.

Council assured the two that the unhealthy conditions which they said are daily growing worse would be remedied, perhaps while the west end extension work is being done.

grasses, 27; sedges, 3; shrubs, 101; trees, 84. It is noted in the book that "only native species (miscellaneous plants) are planted in the preserve. List covers foreign introductions, such as daisy and dandelion which have become naturalized." In addition there is the list of trees in "Penn's Woods," the numbers being assigned in the order in which the trees were sponsored. In this list the common names only are given, while in the first tree list both the botanical and common names are recorded. Under the other classifications, also, the botanical and common names are listed, the record being a delight to the nature lover.

The center-spread of the booklet is given over to a map of the Wild Flower Preserve. The various trails—Piddock, Marshmarigold, Azalea, Bluebell, Gentian, John W. Harshberger, Edgar T. Wherry, Mary Helen Lloyd, Roscoe C. Magill Medicinal, Pocomos Laurel, Mary K. Parry—are all shown, as are also other points of interest.

Atom-Bomb Attack Would Catch U. S. With Guard Down On Civil Defense

atomic explosion in Russia finally put steam into the U. S. civil defense drive. Much time had been wasted, however, and no one knows for certain how much is left.

One military estimate is that by mid-1952 Russia will have a sufficient stockpile of A-bombs to do great damage in an attack on the U. S.

Larsen, 48-year-old electronics engineer and former official of New Mexico Atomic Laboratories, took over the civilian defense mobilization effort last January. He has the operation moving rapidly and huge amounts of planning are going on.

In the musty old State Department building adjacent to the White House, Larsen's small staff of 27—drawing on the talents and ideas of 700 specialists in other federal agencies—is whipping into shape an interim or "emergency" civil defense chart.

It will be ready Sept. 1 for transmission to the Governors of all states, territories and possessions. This will constitute the nation's civil defense blueprint while the master program is being built, volunteers trained, equipment standardized and materials stockpiled.

If one of our cities were attacked tomorrow, however, it would have to rely on its own existing fire and police departments and medical resources, augmented by available military forces and some technical assistance from the Federal Government.

Larsen and his aides are constructing no huge federal bureaucracy. They have a "grass roots" concept of civil defense. Washington can draft blueprints, provide technical data on the atom, stockpile equipment and possibly help finance the program.

But there federal responsibility largely ends. The states, and more particularly each individual city, will have to enroll and train volunteers and prepare itself to cope with an emergency of the type which bomb-blasted Hiroshima suffered some five years ago.

After Sept. 1, states and cities will be in a position to step up their civil defense preparations. Thus far, however, only 22 states and Hawaii have enacted legislation to permit implementation of the forthcoming civil defense guide. This, despite Larsen's grim warning: "There is no city or town in the nation that can claim absolute immunity from wartime disaster at the hands of an enemy."

(Tomorrow: America's "evacuee pig cities" in the civilian defense plan.)

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Mar. 6, 1902. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published at Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

HULMEVILLE — The annual meeting of the Hulmeville council was held in the town hall on Monday evening of this week. After the regular routine of business the old council adjourned sine die. The new members, A. J. Brown, Jesse G. Webster and H. Bachofer were sworn in by Burgess George Harrison. The retiring members are E. Praul, Harry Gill, and Jesse G. Webster. Frederick Afterbach was elected president of the new council and Ed. Willet, clerk . . .

NEWPORTVILLE — The Gypsy wagons at Charles Matthews' carriage emporium, are attracting considerable attention just now. They are certainly handsome, your correspondent has stood and watched our artist, Charles Slemmer, as he put on the finishing touches. When the queen of the Gypsies gets seated in her chariot, she thinks that she will be proud as Lucifer or Prince Henry . . .

John F. Smith and Walter F. Jackson of the Bristol National League Basketball Association, have purchased the auditorium on Wood street from Walter West, of Trenton, for $1650.

The steamer "Florence," belonging to the Bordentown and Philadelphia Transportation Co., was burned last Thursday night at her dock at Bordentown. The cause of the fire is unknown. The steam yacht, Chelsea, belonging to J. L. Kuzer, was saved by the firemen. The loss is said to be $10,000, partly insured.

The tenants occupying the houses belonging to the Pennsylvania Railroad and located along the line of its proposed straightening and rearrangement of tracks through Bristol have been notified to vacate by April 1st. All of these properties will be torn down to make way for the new improvement which is to be carried forward to completion during the coming summer.

Former Judge John Wildman died at his home in Langhorne, Sunday night, aged just over 89 years . . . He was born in Middletown township February 13, 1813.

The Bristol borough council met on Tuesday evening for re-organization when the following officers were elected: W. Frank Scull, president; J. Wesley Wright, secretary; H. H. H. Poole, treasurer. Charles Saxton was re-elected chief of police and pound-keeper. The appointment of George W. Fischer as garbage collector was confirmed.

Rev. Robert Hetherington, who is well-known here, having been born and raised in Bristol and educated in the local public schools, has just completed a splendid record as pastor of the North Wales Methodist Church. On last Sunday evening the North Wales Church burned the mortgage of $1500 on the parsonage, special services being held . . . Mr. Hetherington has been asked by his congregation to return for the fifth year. He has also received a call from St. Paul's Methodist Church of Philadelphia, and also from Oak street Methodist Church, Norristown.

Isaac Radcliffe, aged about 30 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Radcliffe, of near Matthews Corner, Buckingham township . . . was drowned in the flood in Mill Creek, near Buckingham Valley . . . Friday afternoon.

Mr. Radcliffe drove to Doylestown during the morning, and after transacting some business . . . started on the return trip by way of Furlong and the Forest Grove road.

When he reached the iron bridge over Mill Creek, near Buckingham Valley, he found the water very high, running around both ends of the bridge, and the stream filled with floating ice and drift-wood. He decided to venture across, passed successfully over the approach and crossed the bridge. In attempting to ford the stream running around the farther end of the bridge, he ran into a very strong current, which carried the horse off his feet and floated horse, buggy and himself down the swift-running tide.

The team and driver floated safely for a distance of perhaps 150 yards, when the spectators on the bank were horrified to see the wagon overturn.

Radcliffe pitched out over the horse's head into the water and Harry Cornell called to him to swim for some willow trees and catch hold of the boughs. Radcliffe did not do so. As he was a good swimmer it is supposed he was hurt in some way . . . He soon disappeared from view . . .

At the close of the last regular meeting of Eden Council, Jr. O. U.

A. M., Councillor James P. Hellings announced that a concert would follow and the doors were opened to the public. The exercises opened with a brief address on the principles of the order by George Cutler followed with a harmonica trio by Messrs. William Pierce and Erwin and Phares H. Bilger. Charles Zebley entertained the audience with a comic sketch which was followed by a Dutch song by Henry H. Bilger. . . .

and a scalp wound which required two stitches.

Chief of Township Police Joseph Seader was called to investigate both of these accidents. Four cars were involved in a crash at 12:45 p. m., Saturday, three-quarters of a mile west of Pennel. According to state police of Langhorne barracks, the four cars were travelling in the same direction on the Lincoln highway. A car operated by Raymond C. Graeber, 30, of Langhorne R. D. 3, stopped to make a left turn, with Roy Lee Scott, 25, Elizabeth, N. J., practically halting in back of him, when James L. Rodwell, Bogota, is said to have hit the Scott machine in the rear. The car operated by Hattie M. Swain, 33, of Winston-Salem, N. C., which was following Rodwell, attempted to pass the other cars and was hit by the Rodwell machine also. The Dickerson woman was riding in the Swain car. She was examined by a physician.

REFUSE COLLECTION
CHICAGO, — (INS) — An increasing number of cities are imposing refuse collection charges in an effort to make the pick-up services self-supporting, according to the International City Managers' Association. Information reported to the 1950 Municipal Year Book shows that nine more cities over 10,000 population adopted charges for the collection of refuse from residences and commercial establishments last year. At least 132 cities of this size now assess such charges on their residents. Some cities, that collect no fees from residents within their limits, levy charges for their service outside of their limits.

"Show Off" Meat Dishes: Here's How
Finishing touches are important! When it comes to serving meat dishes this is equally true whether it be a standing rib roast of beef, a pork chop, or ground lamb patty.

ties, says Reba Staggs, home economist.

In choosing a garnish for lamb the homemaker often turns to mint. To capture this combination on the meat platter, bright peach halves may be topped with mint ice. Or drained pear halves may be heated in melted mint jelly or in pear juice containing a few drops of oil of peppermint and green vegetable coloring. Another cheerful decoration for the roast lamb platter is spiced beets cut julienne style.

Ever popular with pork chops or a pork roast are fried apple rings or wedges. Pineapple slices centered with tart jelly are another possibility. For a vegetable to garnish pork, asparagus bundles may be wrapped with a band of pimiento. Small whole carrots browned in ham fat provide an especially bright border for a broiled ham slice.

With steak, French fried potatoes are frequently served. For a change, onion rings may be marinated in spiced beef juice, then arranged around the steak platter. Baked onions, filled with seasoned bread stuffing, provide a different type garnish. Mashed potato cups bearing diced vegetables or peas are a choice for a beef roast platter. Or perhaps orange slices topped with cranberry jelly.

Lemon Pie
2 slices of bread
1 cup hot water
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
Juice of 1 large or 2 small lemons
3 tablespoons sugar
Pastry for 9" pie

Remove crusts from slices of bread and break the bread into small pieces. (Save crusts for other uses). Add hot water, butter, salt and sugar. Add 2 egg yolks, well beaten, and lemon juice. Line pie pan with crust and put in the filling. Cover with a thin top crust and bake in a moderately hot oven (350 degrees F.) until brown, about 40 minutes. Frost with the egg whites beaten with 3 tablespoons of sugar and return to oven to brown. (Or sprinkle top with confectioners' sugar).

Oversize Tea Sandwiches Make News

Tea sandwiches — family style. Oversized copies of dainty teatime sandwiches provide the homemaker with an attractive lunchtime treat. To complete this summer's menu they are served with a hot vegetable, a tossed green salad and dessert.

Reba Staggs, home economist, suggests ready-to-serve meats for the sandwiches. Slices of bread may be cut in large rounds (save crusts for scalloped dishes), spread with parsley butter and topped with round slices of bologna. Halved hamburger buns may be used for these sandwiches too.

Or bologna may be ground, seasoned with horseradish and moistened with mayonnaise, then spread on bread diamonds, strips or triangular halves. For more variation for the serving platter, rye bread may be spread with liver sausage and decorated with thin bits of mustard pickle. Or luncheon meat may be mixed with chopped peanuts (or grated carrot) and mayonnaise.

For a finished look, the open-faced sandwiches are garnished with stuffed olives slices, sweet pickle slivers or parsley bits.

Braise Meat Cubes for A Hearty Summer Meal

To answer June's need for appetizing meals the homemaker may turn to braised meat dishes. To many this may mean a pot-roast or a Swiss steak, but cubes of beef, veal, pork or lamb (such as those for stews) may be braised with the same flavorful results.

In preparing this braised dish, the cubes are first slowly browned in hot fat in a heavy utensil. From ¼ to ½ cup of liquid is added and the utensil covered tightly. The meat is allowed to cook slowly until tender—from 2 to 3 hours depending on the cut of meat.

Variety comes with the choice of cooking companions. The liquid may be tomato juice for beef or veal or fruit juice for pork or lamb. If cooking tomatoes and onions, whole kernel corn or other vegetables with the meat, water is usually the cooking liquid. For more interesting servings, the cubes may be braised in condensed mushroom, split pea or tomato soup.

STORMS

WASHINGTON, (INS) — This season when electrical storms are likely to be frequent seems an apt time to point out that many farm animals are killed unnecessarily by lightning every year. One of the great hazards, engineers say, is the wire fence. Yet that danger can be greatly reduced if the fence is grounded every couple of hundred feet. Large shade trees in the pasture add to the beauty of the landscape and normally help to protect farm animals. But they're lightning hazards too and should by all means, be protected by fitting them with lightning rods. Just be sure the rod is grounded in permanently moist soil.

GAL ART
NEW YORK, — (INS) — Woman—as seen by two centuries of French painters — was the provocative theme of a New York exhibition. The showing consisted of 60 paintings by French masters of the 18th and 19th centuries. Ladies from every level of society are represented in the exhibition, which extended in scope from the precise and classical "Woman with a Kerchief" of David to Renoir's robust and animated "Woman Bathing."

Here and There In Bucks County Towns

Two years ago. The victim was graduated from New Hope high school and from Pennsylvania State College, and, prior to her marriage, had been teaching sciences in a Butler school.

Although the organization hasn't been named, election of officers, heading a group of Bucks county property owners interested in zoning, took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. H. Dierman, president; John A. Dierman, Jr., vice-president; Dr. Elizabeth Keltch-Farquhar, Doylestown, RD, secretary; Mrs. Mary Louise Messinger, Doylestown, treasurer.

In the absence of the committee which was to announce the choice of a name for the group, no formal name has been selected. Vice-President Dierman announced that the next meeting will be held in the Swartzlander Community House, Doylestown, Tuesday, July 18.

About 700 prominent County leaders, including celebrities, enjoyed an invitation preview Wednesday evening at the sumptuous Key Theatre, beautiful new motion picture house recently built at Cross Keys, near the intersection of Route 611 and Swamp road, Doylestown.

The entire Cross Keys area took on a semblance of a Hollywood premiere and as guests assembled, a large blimp hung overhead, flying a trailer announcing the opening of the theatre to the general public. The entrance, outer and inner lobbies, stage and lounges were packed with magnificent "good luck" baskets of unusual and beautiful flowers from business firms and friends.

The principals of the Key Theatre Corporation greeted guests at the door. William G. Smith, president and manager, came originally from Buckingham and returned to this area on being discharged from the Army Air Forces, having served as a transport pilot. He has had five years experience in the promotion, construction, and operation of drive-in theatres on a national scale.

Robert B. Conroy, vice-president, is a life-long resident of Doylestown. Richard S. Clark, secretary-treasurer, is originally from Germantown, but has lived at Doylestown for the past four years.

He added: "We have now reached the stage where we are selecting for artificial insemination purposes only the top bull in every ten thousand born."

Dedication Ceremony Attracts Big Crowd

The dedicatory ceremonies at the new $25,000 home of Clinton J. Lewis Lodge, No. 201, I. B. P. O. E. of W. took place as scheduled yesterday, although the corner-stone laying was postponed. This was done so that this might be cared for later by an organization, who had requested the honor, and the date for such will be announced later.

A number of presentations marked the day, flowers being presented to the Lewis lodge by Twilight Temple (the women's auxiliary), and by the Juvenile Temple. Other presentations were in the form of money, these being made by the Lewis lodge to Roque Sanes, for doing the most manual labor at the site; and presentation by Paul Brown to Exalted Ruler Raymond Dorsey.

Representatives were present from many lodges in Trenton, Burlington, Mt. Holly, Bordentown, N. J.; Morrisville, Langhorne, Newtown, New Hope, Philadelphia, and other points. Twilight Temple had a nurses' unit on duty; refreshments were served; and the children were entertained.

Speakers included Burgess I. Johnston Hetherington, Sr. There were vocal and instrumental selections as arranged.

Arnold-Graham Wedding Is A Mid-Summer Event

MORRISVILLE, July 17 — On Saturday afternoon at two p. m. in First Presbyterian Church, here, a pretty, mid-summer wedding took place when Miss Louise M. Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Graham, Langhorne, R. D. 2, became the bride of Charles E. Arnold, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Arnold, Wilmington, Del. The Rev. Clifford G. Pollock, officiating clergyman, was assisted by the Rev. John D. Tate, Ardmore, Mrs. Theodore Evans, Morrisville, presided at the organ and accompanied Mr. Charles I. Burgess, Morrisville, who sang "The Sunshine of Your Smile" and "Perfect Love."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attractively gowned in a white embroidered organza gown of ballerina length, it having a full skirt, short sleeves and a V-neckline. Her finger-tip length veil was of net, and she carried an arm spray of white daisies, white roses, pale pink orchids and ivy.

Mrs. John D. Tate, Ardmore, matron of honor wore a green organza gown similar to the bride's, and carried a small basket of yellow daisies, ivy and roses.

Mrs. Warren H. Graham, Philadelphia, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Donald F. Holmes, Wilmington, Del., a sister of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaids. They wore yellow organza fashioned similar to the bride's gown, and carried small baskets of yellow daisies, ivy and roses.

Mr. Frank T. Roberts, Wilmington, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, acted as best man; while Mr. Layton Sandstrom, Wilmington, and Mr. Malcolm Graham, New York, N. Y., brother of the bride, served as ushers.

Mrs. Robert N. Graham, mother of the bride, wore a dark blue dress and a corsage of pink roses.

A reception was held on the Graham lawn with approximately 100 attending. After a honeymoon trip to the New England states for two weeks, the two will reside in Wilmington, where the bridegroom is employed by the DuPont Co. experimental station. The bride has been employed by the Vulcanized Rubber and Plastics Co., Morrisville.

The bride's travelling costume was a dark blue sheer dress with white accessories, hat of white and navy blue. She wore a corsage of the pink orchids from her bouquet.

She is a graduate of West Chester State Teachers College. Mr. Arnold is taking a course at Temple University, Philadelphia.

By Herman H. Doh
Pastor

Our Heavenly Father, we pray that Thou will give us a sense of our need, that we might come to Thee in spirit and in truth. We know that only as the Holy Spirit works in our hearts can Thy will be done in our lives. May we permit Him to control every thought and word and deed. In Jesus' Name, Amen.

Frederick Booz Released Under Bail by Niccol

Frederick Booz, 212 Buckley St., was placed under $1000 bail on a stolen car charge Saturday following an all-day escapade that included the reported theft, an auto accident, a disappearance, the eventual capture, fines and imprisonment.

Booz is reported to have stolen a car owned by William J. Pollard, 1st avenue, Magnolia Gardens, on late Friday night or early Saturday morning.

He then is said to have driven the car to Bristol where he ran into an automobile owned by Joseph King, Jr., Haines road, Edgely. The accident occurred at 12:40 a. m. Saturday at Bath and Buckley streets. About $250 damage was done to King's car.

came in second in the first heat and was fourth in the second heat to score 469 points.

Jack Metzger, commodore of the Columbia YC, scored 800 points in the Class C outboards, winning both heats.

Seven cruisers entered the consistency race with "Bill" Ulrich, of Cornwells Heights, winning the event in his "Uricka." Ulrich raced under the flag of the Pennsylvania Yacht Club. His consistency time was one minute slow. Harry Ratcliffe, of the Anchor Yacht Club, was fourth in the event with his "Lottie." This event took place during a heavy rainfall, making it very difficult for the officials to watch the movements of the boats and also keep time.

Al Skwarlo, of the Wissinoming YC, won the two heats in the in-board events to score 800 points. Skwarlo had good competition until the second lap started and then it was a one-sided race. "Jim" Christopher's Whirlaway was second in both heats while William Warner's Wiz-away was third. The latter two are Bristolians and are members of the Anchor Yacht Club. Riding in Whirlaway were Peter Rinehold and Donald Wanamaker while Warner drove his own inboard with Leo Johnson as a partner.

How Hudson's exclusive recessed floor brings you America's Roomiest Car!

HUDSON
Recessed floor ("step-down" design) brings the space between frame members, which is wasted in other cars, into Hudson's passenger compartment. This results in America's lowest center of gravity (and full road clearance), while providing more head room and seating room than any other car.

OTHER CARS
Floor is on top of the frame, so the vital space between frame members is not available for passenger use. The result is a higher center of gravity and either a high roof line or insufficient head room. Seats are narrower; passenger space is reduced.
